

Mr. Augustin JIANU

Starting on January 2017, Augustin Jianu is the minister of Communication and Information Society. Mister Jianu graduated the Faculty of Automatics and Computers within "Politehnica" University from Bucharest, and it is specialized in control engineering and computer science. Following the academic studies, he continued his education with diverse specializations on security regarding information systems and communications, network infrastructure, cryptography, risks and vulnerabilities management, development and testing JAVA applications, communication management, quality management and planning activities, costs and operational resources management, etc. Previously his appointment as minister of communications, he activated in the field of software applications and solutions development, project management, IT&C consultancy, both in private and public environment (manager at CERT-RO), respectively the academic field, nationally and internationally.