

Dr. Iulian Fota, member of the Scientific Council of New Strategy Center

Head of National Intelligence College, Associate Professor Dr. Iulian Fota, earned a bachelor's degree at the Romanian Institute of Civil and Industrial Constructions and a master's degree at the National University of Political Studies and Public Administration, majoring in international relations. Iulian Fota attended the postgraduate courses of the National Defence College, majoring in security studies, and those of the National Defence School, majoring in international security.

He is currently an associate professor at MVNIA. Throughout the years, Iulian Fota has held various public positions: presidential advisor on security issues (2009-2014), head of National Defence College (2005-2009), advisor to Defence Ministry's Department for Euro-Atlantic Integration and Defence Policy (2001-2005).