

Matti Saarelainen, Director, European Centre of Excellence for Countering Hybrid Threats

Mr. Matti Saarelainen, Ph.D. began his career in Finnish Security Intelligence Service (SUPO) in the 1980s, working in various fields within the organization ever since. During 1998-2004, he worked as the Director of the Finnish Directorate of Immigration and during 2005-2008, as the Situation Awareness Coordinator at the Prime Minister's Office. At present, he is the Head of the European Centre of Excellence for Countering Hybrid Threats.