

Cordelia BUCHANAN PONCZEK, Research Fellow, Finnish Institute of International Affairs (FIIA)

Cordelia Buchanan Ponczek is a Research Fellow at the Finnish Institute of International Affairs, and a Clarendon Scholar and doctoral candidate at the University of Oxford. She has held researcher positions with the US Institute of Peace, the Center for European Policy Analysis, and the Polish Institute of International Affairs. Her areas of expertise include critical infrastructure, energy policy and accompanying projects, including low-carbon connectivity and critical raw material sourcing and extraction. Her current research also focuses on geoeconomics, specifically trade, regulation, and supply chain dependencies.