

Sascha Fahrbach

TV host, journalist, and cybersecurity expert

Sascha Fahrbach has lived in seven countries and brings a unique international lens to his work. Fluent in English and German, he has spent nearly a decade immersed in the energy of Warsaw, Poland and the wider CEE region. He has covered major elections including European Parliament, German federal elections as well as NATO summits.

With a sharp eye on innovation and geopolitics, Sascha is particularly captivated by the rising potential of the Three Seas region. He has global expertise as Brussels correspondent for TVP World and is an experienced anchor with over five years on air, he has covered everything from European power shifts in Brussels and Strasbourg to geopolitical developments in the Baltic States. Whether dissecting cybersecurity trends or geopolitical strategies, he thrives at the intersection of technology, policy, and media.
